Reasonable adjustments and accessibility

Nescot will make reasonable adjustments for disabled students and applicants where they experience a substantial disadvantage in accessing this policy or procedure. Adjustments will be considered individually and in discussion with the student.

Requests may be made to the programme team, Higher Education Quality, Learning Support, or the Exams Office where the matter concerns an examination. Information will be shared only with staff who need it to arrange the adjustment, subject to safeguarding or legal requirements.

The process may be adjusted through accessible forms, alternative formats, assistive technology, additional time, supported discussion or another reasonable method of presenting evidence. Adjustments must not change the learning outcomes or the standard of evidence required.

A competence standard or essential learning outcome will not be removed. The way in which a student demonstrates that standard will be adjusted where reasonable. Any decision not to provide a requested adjustment, or to provide an alternative, will be explained and recorded.

A failure to disclose at application or enrolment does not prevent a later request for reasonable adjustments.

Review statement

This document was reviewed on 21 September 2026 in line with its required review cycle. The review included a proportionate check of accessibility and reasonable-adjustment wording. The document remains subject to applicable legislation, awarding-body or validating-partner regulations, professional requirements and related Nescot policies.
